Publisher’s Note

The Muslims in general believe that the Qur’an has been preserved intact and pure by Allâh Himself. But what is often forgotten by many is that this preservation necessarily includes the Sunnah of the Prophet Muhammad (صلی اللہ علیه وسلم), the practical example of the implementation of the Qur’an.

Hadith is Sunnah in record. How the immense wealth of Hadith literature has been left to us by the Muhaddiths (scholars of Hadith) is an extremely wide, complex study.

We publish this short treatise on “the science of Hadith” by the learned Suhaib Hasan with English readers in mind. It is part of our scheme to introduce various aspects of Islam to English readers.

May Allâh accept it as a good work.

FOREWORD

All Praise be to Allâh, Lord of the Worlds. Peace and blessings of Allâh be upon our Prophet Muhammad, and on his family and companions.

We have undoubtedly sent down the Reminder, and We will truly preserve it. (Al-Qur’ân, Surah al-Hijr, 15:9)

The above promise made by Allâh is obviously fulfilled in the undisputed purity of the Qur’anic text throughout the fourteen centuries since its revelation. However, what is often forgotten by many Muslims is that the above divine promise also includes, by necessity, the Sunnah of the Prophet Muhammad (صلی اللہ علیه وسلم), for it is the practical example of the implementation of the Qur’anic guidance, the Wisdom taught to the Prophet (صلی اللہ علیه وسلم) along with Scripture, and neither the Qur’an nor the Sunnah can be understood correctly without recourse to the other.

Hence, Allâh preserved the Qur’an from being initially lost by the martyrdom of its memorisers, by guiding the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, endorsed by the consensus of the Messenger’s Companions (رضی اللہ عنہم), to compile the ayat (signs, miracles, “Verses”) of the Qur’an into one volume, after these had been scattered in writing on various materials and in memory amongst many faithful hearts. He safeguarded it from corruption by its enemies: disbelievers, heretics, and false prophets, by enabling millions of believers to commit it to memory with ease. He protected its teachings by causing thousands of people of knowledge to learn from its deep treasures and convey them to the masses, and by sending renewers of His Deen at the beginning of every century.
23. “Seeking knowledge is a duty upon every Muslim.”
24. “Seek knowledge, even if you have to go to China.”
25. “The ink of the scholar is holier than the blood of the martyr.”
26. “We have returned from the lesser Jihad to the greater Jihad (i.e., the struggle against the evil of one’s soul).”

The methodology of the expert scholars of Hadith in assessing such narrations and sorting out the genuine from the mistaken/fabricated etc., forms the subject-matter of a wealth of material left to us by the muhaddithun (scholars of Hadith, “traditionists”). This short treatise is a humble effort to introduce this extremely wide subject to English readers. The author has derived great benefit from the outstanding scholarly work in this field, Muqaddimah Ibn al-Salah.

A brief explanation of the verdicts from the experts in this field on the above ahadith is given in the Appendix.

We ask Allâh to accept this work, and make it beneficial to its readers.

SECTION A
INTRODUCTION

The Muslims are agreed that the Sunnah of the Prophet Muhammad (صلى الله عليه وسلم) is the second of the two revealed fundamental sources of Islam, after the Glorious Qur’an. The authentic Sunnah is contained within the vast body of Hadith literature.¹

A hadith (pl. ahadith) is composed of two parts: the matn (text) and the isnad (chain of reporters). A text may seem to be logical and reasonable but it needs an authentic isnad with reliable reporters to be acceptable; ‘Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak (d. 181 AH), one of the illustrious teachers of Imam al-Bukhari, said,

الإسناد من الدين، ولو الإسناد لقال من شاء ما شاء

“The isnad is part of the religion: had it not been for the isnad, whoever wished to would have said whatever he liked.”²

During the lifetime of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and after his death, his Companions (Sahabah) used to refer to him directly, when quoting his saying. The Successors (Tabi’un) followed suit; some of them used to quote the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) through the Companions while others would omit the intermediate authority — such a hadith was later known as mursal. It was found that the missing link between the Successor and the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) might be one person, i.e. a Companion, or two people, the extra person being an older Successor who heard the hadith from the Companion. This is an example of how the need for the verification of each isnad arose.

Imam Malik (d. 179) said, “The first one to utilise the isnad was

According to a hidden defect found in the isnad or text of a hadith. Although this could be included in some of the previous categories, a hadith mu'allal (defective hadith) is worthy to be explained separately. The defect can be caused in many ways; e.g. two types of hadith mu'allal are known as maqlub (overturned) and mudtraib (shaky).

According to the reliability and memory of the reporters; the final judgement on a hadith depends crucially on this factor: verdicts such as sahih (sound), hasan (good), da'if (weak) and maudu' (fabricated, forged) rest mainly upon the nature of the reporters in the isnad.

Rijal al-Hadith

Mustalah al-Hadith is strongly associated with Rijal al-hadith (the study of the reporters of hadith). In scrutinising the reporters of a hadith, authenticating or disparaging remarks made by recognised experts, from amongst the Successors and those after them, were found to be of great help. Examples of such remarks, in descending order of authentication, are:

- “Imam (leader), Hafiz (preserver).”
- “Reliable, trustworthy.”
- “Makes mistakes.”
- “Weak.”
- “Abandoned (by the traditionists).”
- “Liar, used to fabricate hadith.”

Reporters who have been unanimously described by statements such as the first two may contribute to a sahih (“sound”, see later) isnad. An isnad containing a reporter who is described by the last two statements is likely to be da'if jiddan (very weak) or maudu’ (fabricated). Reporters who are the subject of statements such as the middle two above will cause the isnad to be da'if (weak), although several of them relating the same hadith independently will often increase the rank of the hadith to the level of hasan (good). If the remarks about a particular reporter conflict, a careful verdict has to be arrived at after in-depth analysis of e.g. the reason given for any disparagement, the weight of each type of criticism, the relative strictness or leniency of each critic, etc.

The earliest remarks cited in the books of Rijal go back to a host of Successors, followed by those after them until the period of the six canonical traditionists, a period covering the first three centuries of Islam. A list of such names is provided by the author in his thesis, Criticism of Hadith among Muslims with reference to Sunan Ibn Majah, at the end of chapters IV, V and VI.

Among the earliest available works in this field are Tarikh of Ibn Ma’in (d. 233), Tabaqat of Khalifa bin Khayyat (d. 240), Tarikh of al-Bukhari (d. 256), Kitab al-Jarh wa’l-Ta’dil of Ibn Abi Hatim (d. 327) and Tabaqat of Muhammad bin Sa’d (d. 320).

A number of traditionists made efforts specifically for the gathering of information about the reporters of the five famous collections of hadith, those of al-Bukhari (d. 256), Muslim (d. 261), Abu Dawud (d. 275), al-Tirmidhi (d. 279) and al-Nasa’i (d. 303), giving authenticating and disparaging remarks in detail. The first major such work to include also the reporters of Ibn Majah (d. 273) is the ten-volume collection of al-Hafiz ‘Abd al-Ghani al-Maqdisi (d. 600), known as Al-Kamal fi Asma’ al-Rijal.

Later, Jamal al-Din Abu ‘l-Hajjaj Yusuf bin ‘Abd al-Rahman al-Mizzi (d. 742) prepared an edited and abridged version of this work, punctuated by places and countries of origin of the reporters; he named it Tahdhib al-Kamal fi Asma’ al-Rijal and produced it in twelve volumes. Further, one of al-Mizzi’s gifted pupils, Shams al-Din Abu ‘Abdullah Muhammad bin Ahmad bin ‘Uthman bin Qa’imaz al-Dhahabi (d. 748), summarised his shaikh’s work and produced two abridgements: a longer one

\footnote{Remarks like these are exceptions from the basic Islamic prohibition of backbiting (ghibah) another Muslim. Even if the statement is true. Such exceptions are allowed. Even obligatory in some cases. Where general benefit to the Muslim public is at stake. Such as knowing which hadith are authentic. See e.g. Riya al-salihin of al-Nawawi. Chapter on Backbiting. For the justification for certain types of backbiting from the Qur’an and Sunnah.}
called Tadhhib al-Tahdhib and a shorter one called Al-Kashif fi Asma’ Rijal al-Kutub al-Sittah.

A similar effort with the work of al-Mizzi was made by Ibn Hajar (d. 852), who prepared a lengthy but abridged version, with about one-third of the original omitted, entitled Tahdhib al-Tahdhib in twelve shorter volumes. Later, he abridged this further to a relatively-humble two-volume work called Taqrib al-Tahdhib.

The work of al-Dhahabi was not left unedited; al-Khazraj (Safi al-Din Ahmad bin ‘Abdullah, (d. after 923) summarised it and also made valuable additions, producing his Khulasah.

A number of similar works deal with either trustworthy reporters only, e.g. Kitab al-Thiqat by al-‘Ijli (d. 261) and Tadkira al-Huffaz by al-Dhahabi, or with disparaged authorities only, e.g. Kitab al-Du’afa’ wa al-Matrukin by al-Nasa’i and Kitab al-Majruhin by Muhammad bin Hibban al-Busti (d. 354).

Two more works in this field which include a large number of reporters, both authenticated and disparaged, are Mizan al-I’tidal of al-Dhahabi and Lisan al-Mizan of Ibn Hajar.

SECTION B

THE CLASSIFICATION OF HADITH

1) ACCORDING TO THE REFERENCE TO A PARTICULAR AUTHORITY

The following principal types of hadith are important:

Mauquf (موقف) - “sotpped”: A narration from a Companion only, i.e. his own statement; e.g. al-Bukhari reports in his Sahih, in Kitab al-Fara'id (Book of the Laws of Inheritance), that Abu Bakr, Ibn ‘Abbas and Ibn al-Zubair said, “The grandfather is (treated like) a father.”

It should be noted that certain expressions used by a Companion generally render a hadith to be considered as being effectively marfu‘ although it is mauquf on the face of it, e.g. the following:

- “We were commanded to…”
- “We were forbidden from…”
- “We used to do…”
- “We used to say/do … while the Messenger of Allâh was amongst us.”
- “We did not use to mind such-and-such…”
- “It used to be said…”
- “It is from the Sunnah to…”
